

Tanker springs leak, spills toxic chemical

BY D.C. HARVILL
Both lanes of Interstate 10 near the Louisiana border were closed for five and-a-half hours Thursday night after a tanker truck sprang a leak, spilling a noxious-smelling, hazardous material.

At about 8:30 p.m. Roy Shubert, an officer of the Mississippi Tax Commission on duty at the west-bound truck scales on the interstate, called the Hancock County Sheriff's Department saying a tanker had ruptured while its tractor was being changed, according to Sheriff Ronnie Peterson.

While the Interstate was closed, traffic was routed along U.S. 90, according to Peterson.

In addition to sheriff's personnel, the Mississippi Highway Patrol, and the Mississippi Bureau of Pollution Control were called in to assist with containing the spill.

The Stennis Space Center Fire Department was placed on standby a safe distance from the spill.

According to a Stennis spokesman, the tanker had been jacked up on its support stands which then collapsed causing a small hole in the tank when it hit the tractor.

"It was a minor leak," said Bob Rogers, chief of MBPC's emergency service and transportation division.

Perhaps less than six ounces of Isopropylamine, a chemical used in the manufacture of herbicides, pesticides, and other mixtures, spilled, according to Rogers.

A company specializing in hazardous materials containment, Peterson-Rydel, was called in by the MBPC to handle the spill, Rogers said.

After stopping the leak, the truck, owned by McKenzie Tank Lines in Pensacola, Florida, was sent back to its point of origin, in St. Gabriel, Louisiana, he said.

Isopropylamine is hazardous because it is both highly flammable and toxic, Rogers said.

"It's what I call a good toxin, though; it's not sneaky. It is very odorous, worse than a skunk," he said.

Department of Transportation specifications for the material lists one-half mile as a minimum safety perimeter in case of a spill.

"Local emergency response people did an excellent job in handling the situation, and I say that after years of contact with chemical spills," Rogers said.

LETTERS OF CONGRATULATION—Evelyn McPhail, seated, listens intently as Mary McDonald reads letters of congratulations from Republican leaders upon her being named the party's chairman for the Southern States chairmen. Dr. Michael Smith, background, Hancock County Republican Party chairman, introduced McPhail, a resident of Diamondhead and the Mississippi Republican Party's State chairman. McPhail also received a telephone call during a reception held for her at Diamondhead Friday from U.S. Representative Larkin Smith. A special plaque was also presented to McPhail on behalf of the county's Republican Party. (Echo staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

Monday groundbreaking set for Hancock school

BY D.C. HARVILL
The Hancock County School District is hosting a groundbreaking ceremony Monday for its controversial, new junior/senior high school which is being constructed on property adjoining Stennis International Airport.

The public is invited to attend the ceremony. Signs will be in place from State 603 to direct traffic to the site.

The school is being constructed by Louisiana contractors Lincoln Builders.

Lincoln turned in a base bid of $7,554,000 for the project, but, with several alternative packages selected by the school, board the total cost is $7,917,000.

The 1:30 p.m. ceremony will take place on the grounds of the Pearl River Community College Vocational-Technical Center on Stennis Drive adjacent to the school site.

Guest speaker for the 1:30 p.m. event will be John Hartman, executive secretary of the Mississippi School Board Association.

Dr. Jerry Brown from the Stennis Space Center Public Relations Department is scheduled to speak on education in Hancock County and the lengthy process of getting a bond issue for schools.

Opponents of the school, including a group of private citizens, the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce and Port and Harbor Commission, argued that the airport site is an unsafe setting for a school. They also claimed that the school would hinder further industrial development of the airport.

Proponents of the site, led by Hancock County Superintendent of Education Terrell Randolph, countered that the site is safe and locating the school next to the vo-tech center would provide expanded educational opportunities for the school's students and the county through an adult education program.

PRCC President Ted Alexander, however, announced last week the college might have to turn operation of the center over to the school district in an effort to cut their expenses.

The contract for the project calls for the school to be completed before July 1, 1990.

Mobile pawn shop yields Bay physician's jewelry

BY JANET MCQUEEN
The investigative work of a Mobile pawn shop owner reunited a Bay St. Louis woman with her missing diamond encrusted wedding ring.

Dr. Erlinda Alcaen, obstetrician-gynecologist, had pinned the ring on her scrub suit prior to surgery last week at Hancock Medical Center.

Following the operation, the gown was inadvertently tossed into the soiled garment bin at the hospital. A linen service retrieved it in a routine pick-up, and returned it to Mobile for cleaning.

The next day Alcaen discovered the ring was missing as she prepared for a trip to New Orleans with her husband. Suddenly the fate of the ring became clear as she reconstructed the former day's events.

A trip to the hospital to search through the soiled linen proved fruitless. A call to the Mobile linen service was also a dead end, as they were unable to locate the ring.

Enter Randy Collins, owner of Eddie's Pawn Shops.

Less than 24 hours after the ring was lost, a woman approached the Prichard, Ala. location attempting to sell the diamond ring for $200.

An employee handed the ring to Collins, who verified the authenticity of the stones.

"She didn't belong with that ring," Collins said. "After talking a while with her, she said she had found the ring on a scrub (gown)."

He explained to the woman that it was illegal to find a ring and then try to sell it to a pawn shop.

Calls to the Mobile and Prichard police departments were futile, as no detectives were on duty over the weekend. So assuming a detective role himself, Collins obtained a list of hospitals that use the linen service.

He began calling to inquire if a missing ring had been reported. On the eighth call he struck pay dirt.

Leaving his name and number with Hancock Medical Center, in less than 30 minutes a very happy Dr. Alcaen called to identify the ring.

She drove to Mobile the next day and interrupted Collins' golf game to retrieve her missing ring.

"I couldn't believe it!" she said of her nothing short of incredible luck.

To the modest pawn shop owner, it was all in an honest day's work. "If you're not raised to steal dimes and nickles, there's no reason to steal thousands. I guess my mom and dad are to be thanked for that," Collins said.

Poisoning investigators looking at theft motive

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Hancock County Sheriff's Department is investigating a dog poisoning case that may have been part of another attempted crime.

According to Harold Heine, who serves both as an auxiliary deputy to the sheriff's department and the county's animal cruelty investigator, said the two pet Dobermans were apparently mistaken for guard dogs by someone who wanted to commit a theft.

Heine explained that the owners of the two dogs, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Ellis of 920 Chiniche Street, Bay St. Louis, have other pets.

"There are many dogs there and only the Dobermans were bothered," he stated.

Investigator Nathan Hoda, also working on the case, added that only misdemeanor charges such as cruelty to animals and malicious mischief could be placed on someone arrested for dog poisoning, but thefts can mean felony charges, depending on the value of the items taken.

Compretta pushes nursing home bill

BY ELLIS CUEVAS
A Senate bill approving a Certificate of Need for a 60-bed nursing home located next to the old Hancock General Hospital received House floor approval after being deleted in a House Committee last week.

Representative J.P. Compretta stated, "The Bill passed in the Senate and when it went to the House Committee, the section for a Certificate of Need for a 60-bed nursing home in Hancock County was deleted. I proposed an amendment to the Bill and the Certificate of Need received House floor approval."

"House floor approval was also received for a 40-bed Certificate of Need for a nursing home in Diamondhead planned by private investors," Compretta added.

The old Hancock General Hospital was purchased by Southern Health Enterprises, Inc. last July and is currently undergoing a complete renovation to be used as a personal health care home for the elderly.

During negotiations with the county, Hancock Supervisors were told the old 60-bed facility when renovated would be used by Southern Health Enterprises for care of patients who are basically ambulatory but need assistance with medication and other health care needs.

"The construction of an additional facility would help the area's economy in addition to permanent jobs when in operation," Compretta said.

Grand Jury indicts 87, report expected later

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Hancock County Grand Jury has returned 87 indictments out of the 102 cases heard during a five-day session.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said Saturday that, according to his understanding, about 50 to 60 of the cases were presented by the sheriff's department, with the remainder coming from other law enforcement agencies.

About 30 of his department's cases were drug-related, he said.

Hancock County Circuit Clerk Pamela Metzler said earlier this week that although indictments were being returned, a complete Grand Jury report is not expected for several weeks.

The names of those indicted are not released by law enforcement officials until the indictments have been served, and Peterson said 10 had been served by Friday afternoon with as many as possible expected to be handled over the weekend.

He said all 10 were being held in the Hancock County Jail. They include:

—David Ariel, 31, of 126 Ulman Ave., Bay St. Louis, three counts grand larceny;

—Tyrone Benoit, a/k/a Toby Benard, a/k/a Tyrone Whavers, 25, of 400 Singleton Street,

Waveland, one count false pretense and two counts sale of controlled substances;

—Benny Ray Singleton, 23, of 520 Sycamore Street, Bay St. Louis, one count capital rape;

—Charles W. Bruns III, 28, of Dufour Lane, Waveland, one count sale of controlled substance;

—Kent Bell, 30, of 207 Easy Street, Bay St. Louis, one count sale of controlled substance; —Tony Carr, 27, of Rt. 3, Box 69, Aline, Ark., three counts sale of controlled substance and one count possession of controlled substance with intent to

CORRECTION

An article in Thursday's Echo about aluminum boats seized at a Gulfport scrap yard inadvertently stated that the scrap yard had been charged with possession of boats with altered and tampered serial numbers. The scrap yard has not been charged in the case.

The article should have stated that a hold order on the boats had been issued to the company.

The Echo regrets any inconvenience the error might have caused.

Pedestrian dies Thursday

BY DENA BISNETTE

An autopsy will be performed Monday on a Bay St. Louis man who was apparently hit by a vehicle on Beach Boulevard Thursday night.

Hancock County Medical

Examiner Harold Stiglet said the body of Perry Twyman Heishman, 62, a resident of Hotel Reed Nursing Home, would be sent to New Orleans on Monday for an autopsy to determine the extent of his injuries.

Late Friday, nursing home officials still could not release any information regarding when Heishman was found missing from his room because not all the next-of-kin had been notified yet.

Patrolman David Sellier, an accident reconstructionist for the Bay St. Louis Police Department, said Heishman was struck by a vehicle driven by Lucien M. Gex III of Waveland at about 7:25 p.m. Thursday.

"The case is still under investigation and we do not anticipate any charges," Sellier stated.

Witnesses reported that Heishman was walking in the center of the road near the Bay St. Louis-Waveland city limits at the time he was struck, the officer added.

Heishman, a U.S. Army veteran of World War II, was pronounced dead at the scene with the time of death believed to be 7:25 p.m., Stiglet added.

HAPPY RETURNS—State Auditor Pete Johnson presents a $29,841 check to Hancock County Superintendent of Education Terrell Randolph Tuesday at the school district's headquarters. The check constitutes surety bond payments on former superintendent Billy Sills and former school board members Woodrow Ladner and Johnny Banks, stemming from building bid contract violations in 1980. Johnson attributes collection of the money to Assistant Attorney General Al Nuzo. "It gives me great pleasure to return a check like this. I know it means a lot to the school district," Johnson said. Minimize size by dressing slim Poor clothing choices can exaggerate a weight problem, and wise clothing choices can camouflage it. In fact, proper clothing selection can take five to 10 pounds off the figure.

An understanding of good fit is important to dressing slim. A good fitting garment is one that fits the body with sufficient room to be comfortable when sitting, bending or reaching. A good fitting garment is free of wrinkles at seams and points of strain such as waist, bust, hips, thighs and upper arms.

Garments that are too tight generally give an impression of excess weight. Garments that are too small will only make the wearers look heavier than they really are.

The direction of lines can be a powerful tool in dressing slim. Optical illusions can be created by using the body lines, the silhouette lines and the design lines in a variety of ways.

Generally, vertical lines will make the figure appear taller and slimmer where horizontal lines will make the figure appear wider and heavier. In diagonal lines, the longer and more vertical the diagonal lines, the more slenderizing the effect.

The use of color can also minimize or maximize body size. Darker and duller colors are more slenderizing than lighter and brighter colors. Also one color garments tend to increase apparent height and slenderize the figure.

To disguise a thick waist or abdomen, select medium weight fabrics, one color outfits, slimming jackets or sweaters, and princess lines. Avoid sheer, clingy and bulky fabrics, contrasting bottoms and tops, short jackets that end at the waist, contrasting belts and hip-length blouses for women.

To disguise large hips, select soft, curved lines, gored skirts and soft waistlines or no waistlines. Avoid hip pockets, draped hips, excessive fullness or gathers and fitted slacks or skirts.

To disguise larger upper arms, select slightly gathered sleeves, raglan, cape or kimono sleeves, and soft, moderately full sleeves. Avoid sleeveless styles, fitted sleeves and short, cuffed sleeves.

To minimize a full bust, select soft collars, V-shape seaming and small high V-necklines. Avoid stripes or plaids, extremely severe styles and plunging necklines.

Textile Fiber Products

Identification Act
The Textile Fiber Products Identification Act requires textile products to label fiber content, manufacturer and country of origin.

The act covers all fibers, yarns, fabrics and household textile articles which include articles of wearing apparel, draperies, floor coverings, furnishings, beddings and other textile articles customarily used in a household.

The generic names and percentages of all fibers in the product in the amount of 5 percent or more must be listed in order of predominance by weight. Fibers present in the amount of less than 5 percent are listed as "other fiber" or "other fibers."

The name of the manufacturer or the registered identification number must be listed.

Country of origin is the name of the country where the textile product was processed or manufactured. For example, if a garment is completely made in the United States of fabric made in the United States, it is labeled using the phrase "Made in the U.S.A."

If a garment is made in the United States of fabric made in a foreign country, it is labeled "Made in the U.S.A. of Imported Fabric." If a garment is made in a foreign country of foreign fabric, it is labeled "Made in (name of country)."

As a general rule, labels should be attached at the center of the neck midway between the shoulder seams. Garments without necks and all other textile products should have a label attached where it is easy to locate and read.

Bay Legion members to celebrate birthday

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

The Bay St. Louis American Legion will observe the Legion's 70 anniversary March 15-17 with a post birthday party to be held on March 10.

The party will be part of a celebration at more than 16,000 American Legion Posts located through the United States and in many parts of the free world, Henry Prevou, commander of Clement R. Bontemps Post No. 139, said.

A hospitality hour followed by a special dinner planned by Jesse Burns, second vice-commander, for post members, spouses or guests will begin at 6:30 p.m.

The birthday party will be on Friday night in place of the post's regular membership meeting, normally held on the second Thursday of the month, Prevou stated.

The Bay St. Louis Post was named in memory of Bay St. Louis native Clement R. Bontemps, who was killed in World War I. It began operation in 1923.

The post's first commander in 1923 was the late Curtis Walker followed by Wilson E. Acker.

The American Legion was founded March 15-17, 1919, in Paris, France, at the end of World War I. Representatives of the various units of the American Expeditionary Force in World War I were present for the first meeting.

The late Henry Capedepon Sr., of Bay St. Louis a longtime member of Post No. 139 and post commander several years, was among the American soldiers in attendance at the meetings in Paris.

The organization now includes veterans of World War I, World War II, the Korean and Vietnam Wars.

The American Legion, since its founding, has strived to assist veterans, their widows and children and their fellow citizens.

The organization was responsible for the creation of the GI Bill of Rights, used by millions of veterans to obtain assistance in education and home loans.

The nation's largest veterans organization, The American Legion, fought for passage of legislation creating a Department of Veterans Affairs and for passage of the Veterans Reassurance Act, designed to correct existing inequities in veterans' claim procedures.

The work of the American Legion to support the nation's youth continues to grow as more young people become involved in Legion sponsored programs.

The Bay Legion Post sponsors Boys Scouts, American

Legion Baseball, National High School Oratorical Contests and provides scholarships for deserving college bound students. These are a few examples of how the American Legion continues to strive to provide the youth of America with a solid foundation on which to grow.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The Hancock County Food Pantry is in need of used children's books, coloring books and Crayolas.

The Food Pantry, in addition to providing food, also provides reading materials and coloring books for deserving youngsters.

Persons with books they no longer need for children of any age can leave them at the Bookends Bookstore, Highway 90, Bay St. Louis, for the Food Pantry.

We know the people running the Food Pantry will make sure they are put to good use.

The help from our citizens for those less fortunate is always appreciated.

This is the time of year when young boys begin to think about playing baseball and girls think about softball.

The Bay St. Louis Little League is now in the process of taking registrations for the coming season.

To register, a youngster must have a birth certificate and be between the ages of nine and 12 years.

One parent must be present at registration and there is a fee of $15.

A youngster must live within the following boundaries: the city of Bay St. Louis, including all of Hancock County, lying south of I-10, less the incorporated city limits of Waveland; or that part of Hancock County, lying north of I-10 and south and east of Rotten Bayou and Jourdan River.

Registrations are scheduled for March 7, 8 and 9, 6-8 p.m., Bay St. Louis Little League Park, Athletic Drive, for boys' Little League; McDonald Park, Dunbar and Ulman Avenue, for girls' Little League softball; and March 11, 9-11 a.m., at both ballparks.

Tryouts for the 1989 Little League season will be held March 13, 14 and 15 at 6 p.m. at the respective ballparks.

We hope everyone will have an enjoyable and safe ball season.

While on the subject of sports, the Bay Area Soccer League continues to move along with play each week. It appears more and more boys and girls are becoming interested in the sport.

We are sure many of the younger players will be the high school and college stars of tomorrow.

Congratulations are in order for Evelyn McPhail upon being named the Republican Party's Southern States chairman.

Evelyn is the top Republican in Mississippi and is a resident of Hancock County and Diamondhead.

Friday night, Hancock County Republicans honored McPhail with a reception and she was presented with a plaque for her many years of dedication to the party.

It seems there are still folks around who like to drive vehicles with only one headlight.

I drove less than one mile Friday night on dangerous Highway 603 only to be met by two oncoming autos with only one headlight operating.

If a person is capable of driving a vehicle, he should also be brilliant enough to realize when one of the headlights is not working.

Highway 603 is dangerous enough without motorists with only one headlight using it.

To me, it seems if several persons were ticketed for improper equipment and had to come up with a few bucks in fines, they may get the message.

We have always been under the impression that it is a violation to operate a vehicle with only one headlight working. Then again, maybe the law has changed.

All I know is that it is very hard at times to distinguish the exact position of an oncoming vehicle on the road at night, especially in fog or when there is other traffic.

One of these days maybe something will be done in Hancock County to correct the situation.

Don't forget the groundbreaking ceremonies Monday at 1:30 p.m. for the new Hancock County school facility off Highway 603 adjacent to Stennis Airpark.

John Hartman, executive secretary of the Mississippi School Board Association, is scheduled to be the guest speaker.

Dr. Jerry Brown of the Stennis Space Center's Public Relations Department is also scheduled to talk on the importance of education in Hancock County.

We hope to see you at the groundbreaking Monday.

Q. What is the difference between the State Guard and the National Guard?

A. The National Guard is a dual-purpose, federally-funded, state-operated military organization responsible for the state's security and tranquility but capable of being mobilized in a national emergency. If the National Guard is mobilized for federal service, the State Guard has responsibility for providing for the state's needs, in cases of natural disasters, civil disturbances and other breaches of the state's security or tranquility.

Learning Line is link between illiteracy, education

We talk a lot about improving public schools in our state. That means we have our priorities in the right place, because the quality of our schools will determine the quality of Mississippi's future.

But we must not forget about those who have fallen through the cracks of our public education system. Too many citizens have dropped out of the system, if they ever attended at all.

These people make up many of the unemployed or working poor of our state. True progress will only come in Mississippi when we help everyone — not just the young students of today, but also those who have fallen behind.

Two new developments offer hope to these individuals, who cannot read or write at a functional level.

First, Julie, my wife, recently announced the start of the "Learning Line" — a toll-free, statewide hotline to put Mississippians in touch with the nearest literacy or adult education program.

By dialing this number — 1-800-325-7323 — any citizen can find help. It may be the most important call that individual ever makes because it could be the start of a new life.

But the program doesn't stop there. The Learning Line will follow up each call with a call to the literacy or adult education program closest to the caller. That way the caller is assured of getting in touch with those who can help.

We also encourage persons interested in being a tutor or volunteer at a local program to call the Learning Line, which can help connect you with a program.

One of the best things about the Learning Line is that it is the result of a cooperative effort by the Governor's Office for Lit-

Highway Patrol cars to fly red ribbons in support of Drug Awareness Week

The patrol cars of state troopers will have a brightly colored addition next week in the form of flying red ribbons.

The ribbons, which represent the Highway Patrol's support of the third annual "Be Smart, Stay Smart, Just Say No!" campaign sponsored by DREAM (The Drug Research and Education Association in Mississippi), will be tied to state troopers' cars during Drug Awareness Week in Mississippi, March 6-12.

"We definitely want to do our part in getting the message across to the young people of Mississippi that the smartest thing they can do is say no to drugs," said Lt. Col. Billie T. Hughes, assistant chief of the Highway Patrol.

"Drugs are rapidly infiltrating our schools, our homes and every aspect of our society. By supporting the efforts of organizations such as DREAM, we can help put a stop to the use of drugs by the youth in this state," Hughes said.

The Red Ribbon concept is sweeping the nation as a symbol of "Saying No" to drugs and alcohol. State troopers will not be the only ones flying red banners during Drug Awareness Week. DREAM says garbage trucks, school buses, corporate and government trucks and vehicles, as well as high school students' cars, and elementary students' bikes will all be sporting red ribbons in support of drug prevention.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Bay citizen lauds Frankiewicz

Dear Editor:

I have just addressed a letter to His Honor Vic Frankiewicz Jr., Mayor of Bay St. Louis. It was a letter of regret...also a letter of thanks...and a letter of good will and good wishes.

Regrets? Yes, I do regret that he has decided not to run in the next election. He has made, and is making an excellent mayor, accomplishing a great deal for our little city.

Thanks? Yes, indeed. I am sure many of us recognize his good works. Campaign promises fulfilled, and goals accomplished. We are thankful. Grateful.

Good wishes? Surely the old toast applies here:

Best wishes for good health, your share of wealth, and time to enjoy it.

I am assured that many of our citizens join me in this sentiment.

Mississippi will host National Literacy Conference

Gov. Ray Mabus has invited the nation's governors to the National Conference on State Literacy Initiatives scheduled to be held April 9-11 in Jackson.

The conference, which was held last year in Chicago, will draw the top literacy experts in America to discuss successful strategies for fighting illiteracy.

Governor and Mrs. Mabus announced the conference while attending the National Governors' Association Mid-Winter Meeting here. Also today, Gov. Mabus was chosen as the new chairman of the Southern Governors' Association.

"This is a real boost to Mississippi because it is, in part, a recognition of our efforts in our battle against adult illiteracy," Gov. Mabus said.

"Not only will it give us a chance to talk about what we're doing, but we also expect to learn some new, innovative approaches to combating illiteracy here."

"There has long been a concern in Mississippi about adult literacy, but this conference will bring a new focus and drive to our efforts that should help tremendously," Mrs. Mabus said.

Some people like cats, some people hate cats and there is no in-between.

I have no idea why that is. There are some people who are indifferent to dogs, but nobody is indifferent to cats. Ask a person about a cat and he's either going to tell you all about his cat, their virtues in general or a few dozen reasons he hates them.

My husband Joe and I have each had dogs for a long time but we recently acquired a cat. He's white with orange spots and was left with us by friends who moved. His name is Amstel, which is an imported cheese or an imported beer, depending how high society you are.

Joe has had cats before. I have always had dogs, and now that I have my first cat I'm closer to knowing why people always have extreme ideas about felines.

Now I'm wondering why they even bother with middle-of-the-road feelings about dogs. They ought to be extreme about canines too.

I find both are a pest to clean up after, because cats use a litter box and dogs use newspaper. Either type is more convenient when they use the backyard, but if you have a yard cat, you have to pay somebody for pest control in the house. If you have a yard dog, you can't use him as an excuse to keep salesmen and such out of your house.

Both canines and cats shed. How much depends on the season of the year, the type of hair they have and the color you happen to be wearing when they jump into your lap. The more contrast between the color you're wearing and the color of the fur, the more both types will shed.

The dogs, who are black and black-and-tan, always want to be friendly if I'm wearing a white shirt. The cat wants nothing to do with me until I wear black.

Both types of pets are escape artists. While we have little trouble with Shadow, the large dog, my little mutt Corky and Amstel like to explore the neighborhood. Corky tunnels; Amstel just goes over the wall. Long-legged Shadow, who leaps like a deer and could probably clear a five-foot fence with ease, is the only one who doesn't want to follow in the footsteps of Houdini.

Neither animal has any respect for the other. One of the greatest difficulties Joe and I encountered when we married was making two adult dogs compatible. Fortunately, Shadow is an altered female and defers to little Corky because he's male, except in disputes concerning food, where it's every dog for himself.

Getting the dogs and cat to respect one another is an unfinished job. Corky, who had never seen a cat before, and Amstel, who had never met a dog, can now be in the same room together without human supervision. Amstel climbs and Corky the munchkin can't reach him. Shadow, on the other hand, must be chaperoned. In her opinion, C-A-T spells lunch.

Another thing I've noticed is neither species wants to travel the way you want them to, particularly if more than one is in the car. Corky wants to drive. Shadow, always a lady, sits decorously on the passenger seat but her nose blocks the rearview mirror.

The dogs always want to go riding, but Amstel doesn't. That cat has the strangest riding position I have ever seen. If no one holds him or stuffs him into a box, he fastens the claws of all four feet into the ceiling upholstery and screams for the entire trip.

Some people say they prefer cats because dogs are too noisy. Are they kidding? That furry feline Romeo sits in the window and sings the entire night. It sounds like a woman begging for help. What do the dogs when they hear it? They start barking like crazy.

I could go on and on, but then people might think I don't care much for pets. Actually, I get great pleasure from my furry family and at times prefer their company to that of people. Pets are a great stress release at the end of a hectic day and the little troubles they cause make them all the more amusing to me. I highly recommend them to those with the room and time to care for them.

It's just some of the stuff they do that I don't like or understand. I still haven't figured out why Corky steals and hides dirty socks but is perfectly content to drag my unmentionable laundry out when I have company, why Shadow crushes every single tennis ball I give her and why Amstel thinks he's a furry ankle bracelet.

But then, I don't know why pets like people, either.

Author Scheib to review New Orleans SYC history

Flora Scheib, author of History of the Southern Yacht Club will be guest speaker at a buffet luncheon at the Biloxi Yacht Club on Wednesday, March 8, at 11:30 a.m.

Mrs. Scheib will discuss the history of yacht clubs along the Gulf Coast, along with a historic photographic presentation. She will also be autographing copies of her book.

Members of all yacht clubs along the Gulf Coast are invited to attend.

Organized as a boat club in 1849, the Southern Yacht Club in New Orleans has hosted countless regattas, supported other yacht clubs, and participated in interclub competitions, many of which were set up through the Gulf Yachting Association.

The second oldest yacht club in the United States, the Southern Yacht Club's history is clearly connected to the history of New Orleans and its founding families.

Famous for its skillful champions, unique racing programs, and ever-changing fleet of magnificent yachts, the Southern Yacht Club has sponsored serious competitive sailors.

In the first-ever Olympic sailing competition, held at the 1932 Games, Gilbert Gray and Andrew Libano of the Southern Yacht Club won the gold medal in the star class, bringing the Southern Yacht Club to the nation's attention.

Flora Scheib is the club's archivist and a member of the historical committee. Her articles have appeared in numerous national publications.

Early detection is the KEY to success in the battle against breast cancer. Mammograms can detect tumors up to three years before they can be found by a physical exam. Along with mammography, breast self examination (BSE) is of vital importance. Early detection gives you a choice between major surgery (mastectomy) or minor surgery (lumpectomy). Free information on the mammography procedure and classes on BSE, taught by a trained nurse, are offered in this session. MORE RED RIBBONS—Joell Ladner, left, and Darlene Garth, students in Janelle Griffin's Life Skills class at Bay Senior High School, make "Just Say No!" ribbons Friday afternoon with help from teaching assistant Arlene Garcia. Drug Awareness Week sparks local activities

BY D.C. HARVILL
It is easy to tell school children to "Say No To Drugs" but, in order for the anti-drug campaign to be successful they have to receive support from the community and their peers.
Children in area schools will be joining students throughout the state this week, March 6-12, in marking Drug Awareness Week in Mississippi, part of the third annual "Be Smart, Stay Smart, Just Say No!" campaign sponsored by the Drug Research and Education Association in Mississippi (DREAM).
Students in St. Clare Elementary School's seventh and eighth grades kicked off the program early by tying red, "Just Say No!" ribbons they made to Waveland City Hall and businesses along Coleman Avenue.
They also distributed "Just Say No!" stickers along the way and presented the Waveland Police Department a plaque in appreciation for their efforts in combating substance abuse.

According to a press release issued by DREAM, the red ribbon concept is "sweeping the nation as a symbol of Saying No! to drugs and alcohol and that towns across Mississippi will be sporting red ribbons this week."
Students at North Bay and Waveland Elementary and Bay Junior and Senior High Schools will also participate in the week's activities.
Members of Janelle Griffin's life skills and pre-vocational classes at Bay Senior High made "Just Say No!" ribbons to be distributed among students.
During the week, Bay High students will tie red ribbons at prominent locations around town.
Waveland Elementary is sponsoring a poster contest and North Bay will release balloons with anti-drug messages attached to them.

Members of the Bay High chapter of Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD) will assist with the balloon release and serve as judges for the poster contest.
Teachers throughout the county will include drug awareness information in their lessons.
"The main purpose of these activities is to let students and the community know that there is a drug problem," said Gloria Dean, faculty coordinator at Bay Senior High.
"The Be Smart, Stay Smart, Just Say No!" school and community-based project provides an excellent way for a community to show its support for waging our nation's war on drugs," said DREAM Executive Director June Milam.

Those interested in the problem of illiteracy and those wishing to update their tutoring skills are also invited to attend.
This workshop will be held in two six-hour sessions at the City-County Library, Highway 90 in Bay St. Louis.
Session one will be Saturday, March 11, and session two Saturday, March 18 from 8:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. Attendance at both sessions is required for certification.

Reflections
On LifeBy Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

Love is strongest of all

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

Hatred is the most powerful of all the negative motivators. Operating through its bitter, steamy vents of revenge, grudges, resentments and sheer malice, hatred drives people maniacally, demonically to wish, to speak, to inflict evils of every sort on its unfortunate, often unwitting victims.

But far greater than hatred is love. As a motivator, love has no peer, not even a close second. Hatred motivates through the worst means and in the worst way, thereby restricting and enslaving the mind through the negative and harmful.

Love, on the other hand, motivates by the best means and in the best way, opening the mind and enabling it to blossom through everything positive and beneficial to body, mind and spirit.

Jealousy is one of the strongest captivators in the world, holding minds and hearts captive to its insecurity about whatever or whomever it claims to possess.

Yet, far greater a captivator is love, which holds the beloved without making her/him a captive of the restrictions and insecurities of jealousy. Rather, it holds much more surely, yet very gently, by implicit trust in oneself and in the beloved.

Money, or its equivalent, is one of the greatest movers in life. With disturbing and distressing consistency, it has usually managed to move most people most of the time to operate at an extremely high, often frenzied level to gain it and to retain it.

Driven by needs, most people readily pursue the benefits of money and material goods.

Imperceptibly, most people, unless they exercise great vigilance, easily cross the border from necessities to wants, from need to greed, and become slaves to avarice.

In fact, Paul told Timothy that the love of money is the root of all evil (1 Timothy 6:10).

Conversely, we can say that a love centered around spiritual values is the root of all good and causes all good things to sprout and flourish.

Yes, far greater a mover than money is love. Money moves because of greed, one of the basest, most negative and most damaging features of our tainted human nature.

Love, however, is a mover unlike any other for sheer power and sureness, moving, compelling and driving through selflessness, appreciation and joy.

Sexual chemistry, at its raw inception, has a magnetic pull which seems stronger than any other force in life.

It drives humans to think, say and do passionate, often dangerous and tragic things about which movies are made and novels are written.

Yet, for all its incredible draw, sexual chemistry runs a poor second to love in magnetism. It is but a shadow of the power which is generated when unselfish love is joined to the equation.

Just as it does everything else, unselfish love transforms sex into a rare, elevated expression of life as ordained by God.

Ambition can be brutally strong with its tenacious grip on the minds, hearts and very souls of its victims.

Before we know it, it can swallow us wholesale in its selfish, cold, heedless and sometimes brutal drive to accomplish its own ends.

Still, love is surpassingly stronger than ambition, gripping us even more firmly and engulfing us even more surely, but driving us to accomplish all the very best and most meaningful in life.

No matter what we think of, speak of or try to do, we find, invariably, that love is stronger than all, even stronger than the best: "Now there remain these three: faith, hope, and love. But the greatest of these is love." (1 Corinthians 13:13)

convention
March 10-12

The Mississippi Numismatic Association has set Biloxi as the site for its 28th annual convention and coin show on March 10-12.

The show will be held at the Biloxi Hilton Hotel, 3580 West Beach Boulevard. Show hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Friday and Saturday and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday.

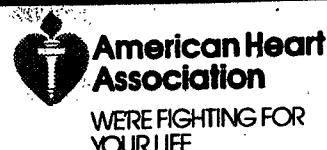

Several million dollars worth of rare coins will be on display and for sale at the show. Admission is free, and the show will be open to the general public.

Sixty dealers from 15 states will be setting up booths at the show for buying selling, and trading coins. In addition to coins and related material, dealers will have baseball cards, jewelry, stamps, and other collectables.

Silver dollars will be given away as door prizes each hour the show is in progress. Registration for the door prizes is free.

Also planned is an educational forum on coins, as well as a seafood buffet on Saturday evening. All events will be open to anyone attending the show.

COUNTY AGENT NOTES

By Lee Taylor

Winter has come late again this year and will most probably damage our fruit trees. It's hard to say what the extent of damage will be, but many fruit trees were blooming and some may have I had seen were setting fruit. Several home owners and farmers were going to cover trees and spray them with water hoses in an attempt to save the fruit.

If for some reason your trees haven't budded out, there's still time to apply a dormant oil or liquid lime sulfur. At bud break a standard spraying procedure should be followed involving a good fungicide.

At blooming, an insecticide should be mixed with the fungicide. We have spray schedules and directions here at the office on Dunbar Avenue.

Local nurseries and garden centers still have plenty of good quality fruit trees and shrubs available. If you have questions regarding varieties or planting information we have this at the office also.

Pecan trees should be fertilized this time. A rule of thumb is a pound of 13-13-13 per inch of diameter. Trees should be fertilized again on July 4 with the same amount.

Dairy news
Dairymen should be concerned with having ryegrass pastures well fertilized and be able to take advantage of lush spring grasses. These type forages are high in protein and have great potential for producing large amounts of milk.

Production of milk per cow is up and this continues to offset the recent dairy buy-out program. Dairymen should have ration checked at the State Chemical Laboratory to determine the crude protein, fiber and fat content.

Wildlife
Most wildlife seasons are almost over. Feb. 28 will be the end of rabbit, quail, snipe, woodcock and other types of hunting. Turkey season will open March 18.

This time of year is a time of transition for wildlife. Many places they normally feed on are not available.

If food plots are available, they should be top dressed with ammonia nitrate or urea to keep them growing. Ryegrass or wheat can be important forage for rabbits, deer, and turkey at this time.

Beef cattle producers should be on the lookout for coyotes. I spotted one this morning at our farm. They could possibly be a problem at calving time, so be on the alert.

DRUG ARREST

Bond has been set at $5,000 for a Texas man arrested in Hancock County on a drug violation.

Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Glen Strong said Gary Geroe, 39, of 3518 Uphold, Houston, Texas, was charged with one count of possession of a controlled substance.

Geroe was arrested at about 4 a.m. Saturday shortly after two auxiliary deputies, Steve Garber and Bobby Knesel, stopped to offer him their assistance when they saw him parked at the roadside with five hispanics.

Upon approaching the car, the officers saw drug paraphernalia in the vehicle and a search was initiated, Strong said. The investigator said Geroe was found to have crystal methamphetamine.

The five hispanics were turned over to the U.S. Border Patrol, Strong added.

Assisting Garber and Knesel at the scene were Auxiliary Deputy Clay Sick and Deputies Albert Biehl and Don Watson.

Strong is in charge of the investigation.

DOPE BUST

A tip from an anonymous caller led to the confiscation of morphine and marijuana by Bay St. Louis Police officers Monday.

About 10:30 p.m. Monday, Investigator Tom Burleson, with assistance from officers Shane Carr and Richard Hannah discovered 67 vials of morphine and 10 pounds of marijuana stashed in a duffle bag in the back of a pickup truck parked at Bay Royale Apartments, Burleson said.

According to Burleson there are suspects in the case but no arrests have been made.

ROBBERY

A Bay St. Louis man has been arrested in connection with a Feb. 18 robbery.

John Joseph Dedeaux, 21, of 623 Keller St., Bay St. Louis, was arrested by officers of the Bay St. Louis Police Department. He is charged with one count of robbery.

Dedeaux allegedly snatched a man's wallet at the intersection of Sycamore and St. Francis streets Feb. 18. The wallet reportedly contained about $650.

Dedeaux is also charged in connection with the Jan. 30 burglary of a Washington Street residence.

Bond has been set at $15,000.

THEFT AND FORGERY

A Bay St. Louis woman is awaiting extradition to Louisiana on theft and forgery charges.

Jean S. Fox, 38, was arrested Tuesday by officers of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department on a warrant issued in Kenner, La.

Fox allegedly embezzled about $22,000 from a Kenner insurance agency with which she had been employed until about Nov. 4.

No bond was set pending extradition.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT

The owner of an electrical contracting firm got a surprise when he heard a noise in his yard Thursday night—he caught two men who were apparently attempting to steal copper from him.

Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Delbert Seay said Perry C. Feigle, 31, of Rt. 5, box 6, Bay St. Louis, and Kenneth B. Demoran, 31, of 108 Touline Street, Bay St. Louis, have both been charged with grand larceny.

According to Seay, Louis J. Nicaise allegedly found the two men attempting to take 300 to 400 pounds of copper from his fenced-in yard and detained them while his wife called the sheriff's department.

Seay said the estimated value of the copper is about 90 cents per pound.

Both men were in the Hancock County Jail Friday awaiting a bond hearing.

The arrests were made by Deputies Don Watson and Rita Blaize-Watson.

HIROHITO

The late emperor of Japan was revered as a god. A man above mortality, he has generally been viewed as a passive figurehead who did not actively participate in wartime strategic planning.

A new public television documentary, 'Hirohito—Behind the Myth' airing at 9:30 p.m., Wednesday, March 8, on Mississippi ETV—charges that the late emperor was not merely a puppet of the Japanese military, but was at certain key times an assertive leader who had more to do with Japan's role in World War II than was generally supposed.

Following this controversial look at his life, a panel of historians and other experts will discuss the film and the propositions that it puts forth.

Poison

it could receive medical attention, but a female Doberman survived, veterinarian Connie Clemons-Chevis said.

Chevis said the specific type of poison can be confirmed through laboratory tests, but it has not been made public at this time. However, she said the symptoms include seizures, particularly in an animal which has no history of such behavior, and excessive reaction to sound and light.

The female dog was transferred to Pass Christian Animal Clinic, where Dr. Ronald J. Hunt said her condition is improving.

Both doctors said the dog was the first deliberate poisoning case that they have treated, to their knowledge, but stated that they have treated a number of accidental poisonings resulting from pesticides, insecticides and other household chemicals, symptoms of which can range from shaking and muscular twitching to gastrointestinal problems and bleeding from the nose.

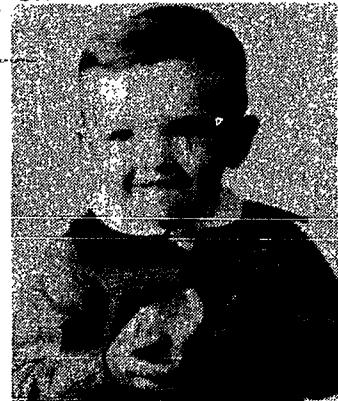

"I hate that it happened," stated Patsy Ellis, one of the owners, "But no matter what I say I can't get the dog back."

"I would much rather that whoever poisoned them had taken a gun and shot them. If you could have seen how he suffered from that stuff...it was really inhumane. It takes a sick person to do that."

Another family member who asked not to be identified by name described conditions as "hysterical, terribly upset" when the first dog was discovered convulsing in the yard Wednesday morning. The time has led law enforcement officials to speculate that the poison was administered sometime Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning.

Anyone who has information about the poisonings or similar incidents in the Chiniche Street-Old Spanish Trail area should contact Heine or Hoda at 467-5101. In the meantime, Heine said, he cautions pet owners in that area to watch their dogs' behavior.

The Hancock North Central Band Boosters is sponsoring a fundraising basketball game with the New Orleans Saints on March 17.

The Saints will be pitted against HNC alumni and the game is to begin at 7 p.m. in the HNC gym, Richard Liles, a booster club spokesman said.

"We are expecting a large turnout for this event. This will be an opportunity for Saints

New Orleans Saints team members scheduled to be at the fund raiser include, Rickey Jackson, Dalton Hilliard, James Haynes, Lonzell Hill, Frank Warren, Eric Martin, John Forcade, Daren Gilbert and Brett Maxie.

Proceeds from the game will go towards the purchase of band uniforms. A goal of $25,000 has been established for that project, Liles said.

Advance tickets are $4 each with door tickets at $6 each and a limited number will be sold.

Tickets can be purchased at The Couch Potato Video, Kiln, or for ticket information call 255-1615 or 798-0922.

EASTER ISLAND

In the most remote area of the world's largest ocean lies a tiny volcanic island. Located at the center of an empty expanse of the South Pacific, it is the most isolated inhabited land on earth.

In the first of a two-part series, 'Nova' probes the mysteries of this strange place, named Easter Island after the day of its discovery by Europeans in 1722. 'Secrets of Easter Island' airs Tuesday, March 7, at 8 p.m. on Mississippi ETV.

Famous for enormous, inscrutable stone statues that gaze across the barren land, Easter Island presents a cultural riddle.

BURGLARY

A burglar who escaped after being discovered by the owners of the home he was burgling has surrendered himself to Bay St. Louis Police.

Andrew Frank Genna, 25, of 238 DeMontluzin St. was caught burgling the home at 209 DeMontluzin St. when the owners returned. He escaped while they were calling police, according to Bay Police Investigator Tom Burleson.

Genna is being held in Hancock County Jail without bond due to an alleged probation violation, Burleson said.

CRACK BUST

A routine traffic stop by Waveland Police last week led to the arrest of two Louisiana men on drug and weapons charges.

Thomas C. Conner, 28, of Westwego, was arrested February 23 at the intersection of State 603 and U.S. 90 and charged with Driving Under the Influence and possession of a controlled substance, believed to be crack. He also is charged with carrying a concealed weapon after a felony conviction, according to Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn.

Conner's bond has been set at $7,000.

Also arrested is Jeffery Johnson, 22, of Westwego. He is charged with carrying a concealed weapon. His bond was set at $5,500.

Making the arrest were officers John Wilkerson, Brett Ladner and Lamar Jones.

20 years in carpentry:

Woman makes career in male-dominated field

BY DENA BISNETTE

Shelby Lee Smith Dupree of Standard never has to call upon a carpenter to work on her home—she has been in that trade herself for 20 years.

She has operated S.L. Smith & Co., a general contracting firm, since she decided to strike out on her own in 1984. Prior to that, she had been a field superintendent for a large New Orleans firm, Leonard Hebert Construction, but had been doing some independent work on weekends and after hours.

Dupree said there is not a lot of work available in her field right now, which began going downhill after the Hurricane Juan and Elena repairs were finished.

Instead, she spends her time raising pet chickens and ducks and working on wooden puzzles that she sells locally at The Family Tree and in New Orleans.

"I started it for my own entertainment, and I really liked it," she said as she looked over a group of animal-shaped puzzles exactly how she got interested in the job.

"It just seemed that all of a sudden, I was building things," she said.

"Twenty years ago, I was one of the first, if not the first, female laborer in a laborers' local in Philadelphia. I kind of work up from there. I dug ditches. I broke rocks. I did what I needed to do."

She said there are more and more women in various phases of construction work now, but at first they were not at all common.

"That was before the bra-burning and everything," she explained, referring to the 1960s and 1970s women's rights demonstrations.

She found a better way.

"These women wanted equality. The ones keeping a low profile and doing their jobs, the ones who don't make waves, who don't need to, are the ones who are succeeding," Dupree explained.

Going into a male-dominated career field back then meant drying on a piece of board. "I love cutting them out and I can fit 25 of them on a six-foot board."

She also like to do the more traditional tray puzzles, which she paints with designs like teddy bears and chicks.

Even though she enjoys her puzzles, Dupree would rather be working on renovations, repairs and remodeling, which she prefers to building new houses.

"I like to work for people on fixed incomes who otherwise wouldn't be able to get something done," she said, explaining that she does not turn away small jobs like hanging a door or fixing a drawer that sticks. Doing such work also enables her to meet people she likes.

"I think elderly people are the most interesting people in the whole world," Dupree commented.

Not all of the people she meets are nice to her and some, even in the age of the liberated woman, do not accept the idea of a woman in construction work.

Being "hard-headed" and "a little aggressive" has helped her get through it all, but mostly, she credits her longevity in the job to her carpentry ability and love for building things.

Things have changed in the 20 years since Dupree started as a construction laborer, but the bias is still there, she said.

Dupree doesn't remember she had to deal with remarks from people who felt she had no place in construction. Some of that attitude still exists.

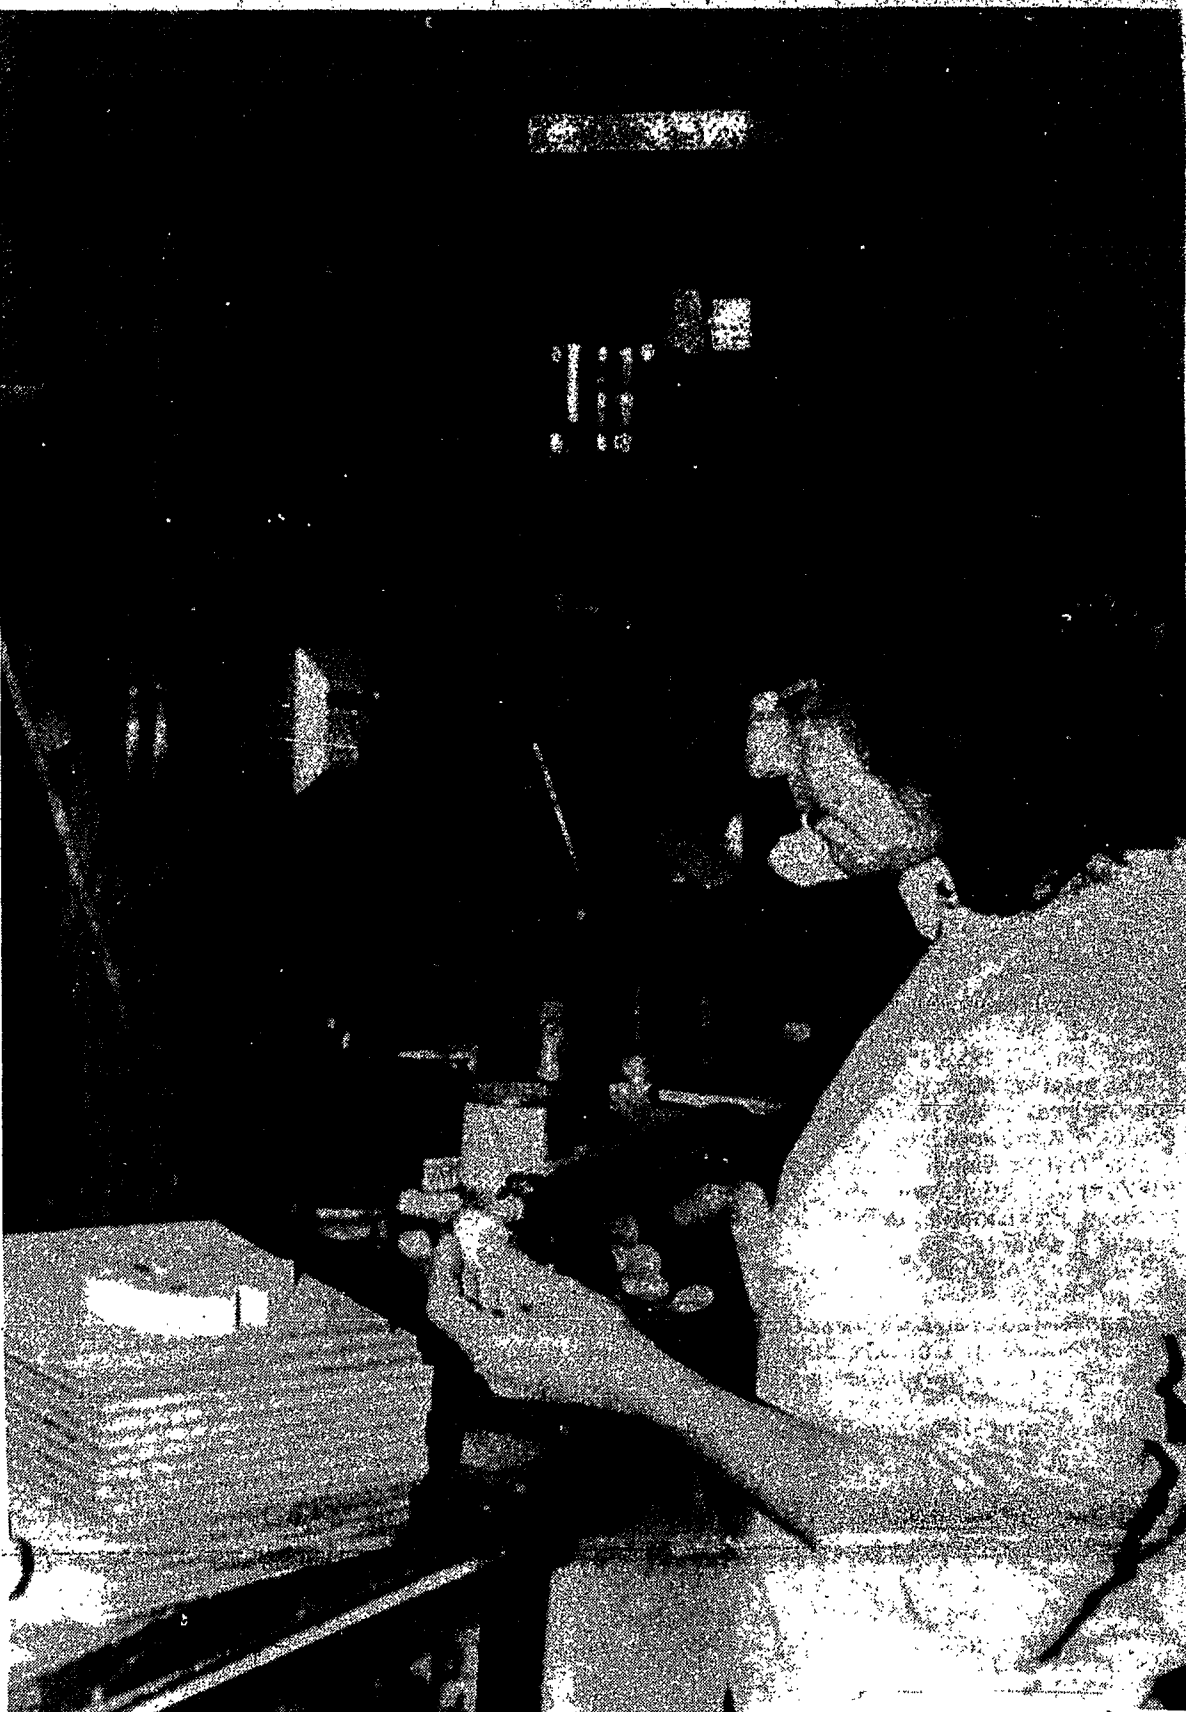

"The hassle is always going to be there. You're always going to have somebody on the crew who thinks you're taking some man's job away," Dupree said.

She said she still has some problems with it because some men see her as a "token female" and some wives see her a threat.

"The worst are the men who stand there and tell you they can do the work themselves and can do it better than you can, but they just don't have the time. But they've got the time to stand over you and watch you do it," Dupree explained.

A problem she sees that carpenters of both sexes find are people who really plan to do the work, but don't know where to start. They'll ask for an estimate and never call back. She advises such people to save their time and get a good how-to book from the library.

Past problems have been worse. One man she worked with as a laborer was particularly abusive, so she told him what she thought of him: she would be his boss one day.

Eventually, he ended up being one of the union carpenters in the crew she supervised for Leonard Herbert, and she had to fire him "because he just wouldn't do the work."

The reverse of that attitude came from Hebert, who "gave me a big chance when he jumped me from laborer to assistant superintendent. I learned a lot working for him," she said.

One thing she has learned over the years is that "women who do traditional men's jobs have a lot more tolerance for other women who can do the work."

When Dupree hires a crew, sex of a job applicant makes no difference to her, and she will hire a senior citizen who is qualified. Her attitude is, "If you can't do the work, you don't belong here," and she has no patience for government programs that require a fixed percentage of female and minority workers regardless of their qualifications.

She offers a reason more women have not gone into her field now that they are more accepted: "There isn't enough work available."

Dupree said she has always had the support of her father, a retired x-ray technician, and her husband, Ralph Dupree, who works as a truck driver.

Truck driving is a traditionally masculine field, but she went into it for a few years when construction was slow. She said trucking proved a good move because she met her husband that way, but she gave it up because she missed carpentry.

Being a woman in a man's field did not bother her 20 years ago and does not now.

"I've never really cared what people thought," Dupree said.

Getting work was sometimes difficult, but once she got it, she feels she proved herself, the five-foot tall, 95-pound carpenter said.

"I never really put any limitations on myself physically, and I think I'm finally starting to pay," she said, mentioning an elbow that has been annoying her.

Dupree talked about what will happen when she can't do physical labor anymore.

"Maybe I'll go into word processing," she said, then reconsidered. "What would I do? Sitting in an office all day would make me crazy."

Her options are open. "I don't believe in putting limitations on myself as to what I might do next. Why should anybody?" she said.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

For a delicious, easily made and "keepable" dessert or tea-time treat, I am quite fond of meringues, small size or large, according to the occasion.

From the tiny, dropped-from-a-teaspoon meringue kisses to the large shells or "vacherins" made of meringues piled one atop the other, then filled with ice cream or fruit, meringues are a special end to a festive meal. And, the medium-size meringues, which I use most frequently, are excellent "cases" for fresh fruit or ice cream for sherbert.

And, there's so easy to make. They freeze well, and may be served straight from the freezer, filled with ice cream, for unexpected guests arrive to find you with nothing else noteworthy on hand!

I often make small meringues, to be embellished later with a generous dollop or so of sour cream or whipped cream and a topping of a few fresh strawberries or peaches, or whatever's on hand and suits my fancy at the time.

The secret of a perfect meringue, of course, is to add the sugar to the beaten egg whites ever so gradually, then beat until it looks and feels oh-so-satinny and smooth, or, as my old family cook's scribbled notes advised - "until you can draw a line through the middle with a spatula and have two 'walls' of firm meringue on either side!"

Her further instructions: "Beat until it hurts - your hand, that is, not the meringue" - she couldn't abide what she called "new fangled machines" and would rather beat or chop or whip by hand than face the clean-up of blender or mixer or what have you - and what she'd have to say about food processors and microwaves and such I can't imagine.

A few more words of warning - it's best to start meringues in a cold oven, and let the oven heat gradually, for meringues should really "dry out" rather than cook - and, at least for me, they don't turn out as well on damp or rainy days.

And, I always "save out" a few spoonfuls in case one of the meringues starts to break apart - I just "glue" it back together with the excess meringue, and I'm the only one who knows - I hope!

So, here's:

MERINGUE SHELLS

6 egg whites
Dash (Scant fourth teaspoon) salt

1 tsp. vanilla
1 to 1 1/2 cups sugar
1 Tbsp. vinegar

Add salt to the egg whites, and beat until quite firm and stiff. Slowly, slowly fold in the sugar, and when very well blended, add the vinegar and vanilla.

Cover a cookie sheet with well-buttered brown paper, and drop the shells from a spoon onto the paper. Place in cold oven, then turn to 250 degrees, and bake for an hour and a half. Cool thoroughly, and fill with fresh fruit or ice cream, topping with sour cream or whipped cream or topping - very easy and versatile.

Spring is the time to tune up your car for warm weather months ahead

Auto maintenance advice takes the heat out of summer driving

The dog days of summer are on their way, and it's time to take the moth balls out of your swimsuits. But, while you are preparing yourself for the hot months ahead, don't forget to get your car in shape as well.

Since it is often difficult to know when your car needs attention, the following suggestions from Car Care Council will aid you in knowing what needs to be done to your auto and when to do it.

1. Watch to see if your engine is hard to start, uses gas excessively, is sluggish, smokes, or is excessively noisy.

2. Be sure that your cooling system is in good condition. The advent of more hot weather could bring about the failure of a hose, belt or other components. How long has it been since you checked your antifreeze/coolant?

3. How about the condition of your tires? Heavy loads at high speeds on hot surfaces are hard on tires. To avoid failure, make sure tires have plenty of tread and are properly inflated.

4. How's your oil? Oil is not only a lubricant, it is a coolant as well. And clean, well filtered oil will help your engine survive the heat.

5. Check your transmission. Does it slip when you shift gears? Is it noisy? Does it shift erratically? For those who tow a trailer, it is especially vital for your transmission to be in the best working order possible.

6. Be sure that brakes stop evenly, and are not making any "funny" noises.

7. Watch to see that lights are working and that they are focused correctly. Also check turning signals and windshield wipers for smearing or streaking.

Now that you've determined some of your car's problems, you will need to find a competent auto repair shop. If this task seems overwhelming, it doesn't have to be. The National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence, an organization that is highly respected in the automotive industry, is an independent, non-profit group which gives voluntary certification exams to technicians.

Motorists can be assured of finding competent automotive service and repair by asking for ASE certified technicians when visiting service stations, car dealerships and independent shops.

Businesses that employ ASE certified technicians usually display the ASE outdoor sign, a large white sign with a distinctive blue seal onto which are printed the initials A, S and E.

Even if your car is in tip top shape, safeguarding it from summer heat is very important. The most common complaint from summer drivers is that the heat affects a car's radiator, causing it to boil over. However, automotive experts believe that heat can affect the entire car, not just the coolant in the radiator.

Tires that are "overheated" can blow out or shred if the recommended air pressure is not maintained.

Strong sunlight combined with pollutants and salt can damage a car's finish. Washing your car regularly is the best way to combat this problem.

Keeping your car in the best condition possible with regular checkups is the best way to assure a car's longevity and the best way for you to enjoy a safe, happy spring and summer!

PROPER WASHING AND WAXING retain the showroom shine and increase the resale value of the vehicle.

Transmission trouble

Your car is acting funny and you think it may be transmission trouble. Have an experienced repair shop, preferably the one with which you normally deal, take it for a drive before you drive anywhere else for repairs.

In just a few minutes behind the wheel, a transmission specialist usually can determine whether the trouble is in the transmission, drive line or possibly the engine.

Not all transmission problems are major, says Car Care Council. A leak does not necessarily indicate the need for a tear-down. Burned fluid often indicates the need for nothing more than a change of fluid and filter.

Interpreting noises car makes, helps find trouble

Ominous car sounds tell you something may be wrong; understanding their cause can help you and your mechanic find and correct the problem before it becomes serious. Here are some of the more common noises, listed by Car Care Council.

* A "clunk" from under the car when you start forward or back up could be a warning that a universal joint is failing. That's serious if it breaks and the drive shaft drops while you're driving.

If you have a front-wheel drive car, you'll also get a clunking sound if you have a looseness in a CV joint (like a universal joint that connects the front wheels to the transverse axle).

* When you apply the brakes and hear a squeal or a scraping sound, that could indicate worn brake linings or pads. If allowed to continue, it could result in damaging brake drums or rotors, making the repair more extensive.

* A thumping sound from a tire could be caused by flat spots on the tread due to improper balance or alignment. It also could be tread separation, which could result in a blowout.

* The sound of ticking in the engine usually is a valve lifter, generally heard when the engine is idling.

* A sudden screech from under the hood could be a worn or loose drive belt.

* A knocking or pinging from under the hood when you accelerate could be from low grade gasoline, incorrect timing or other tune-up adjustments.

* A whining sound as you move from a standstill to normal driving speed could be coming from the transmission and could mean that you are low on transmission fluid. You probably won't hear this sound when the car is idling or in neutral.

* A spitting sound or rumble from somewhere under the car could be an exhaust leak. This is a potentially dangerous situation, due to poisonous exhaust fumes that could seep into the car.

* If you raise the hood and hear a steady snapping sound that speeds up if the engine runs faster, it could mean a spark plug wire is loose or shorting out. The snapping sound is a spark jumping from the bad wire to the metal of the engine.

YEAR-OLD WIPER BLADES DUE FOR A CHANGE

Good visibility during inclement weather requires fresh, flexible wiper blades. If the ones on your car are about to celebrate their first birthday, they are probably due for a change, says Car Care Council.

And here's a tip: When you do replace the old wiper blades with new ones, regular cleaning with a mild detergent of the wiping edge can increase their efficiency...and their life.

* If you turn on the ignition switch and hear a clicking sound, but the starter does nothing, your battery may need charging or replacing. It also could be loose or corroded connections. The clicking comes from the starter solenoid, which isn't getting enough voltage to engage the starter.

* A whirring sound (when the car doesn't start) could be the starter drive. Replacing the part normally will correct the problem.

Saving on auto premiums

When it comes to saving money on consumer purchases, insurance is no exception. In fact, the Insurance Information Institute (I.I.I.) has 17 ways to save money on auto insurance.

1. Deductibles: Choosing the largest reasonable deductible is one way of reducing premiums. (The deductible is the amount of a claim the insured agrees to pay.)

Raising the collision deductible to $500 from $200 could lower the collision portion of the premium about 20 percent. Raising the deductible to $1,000 from $200 could reduce the premium about 45 percent. Discounts may vary by company. Consumers should ask themselves if they could afford to pay the higher deductible in the event of a claim.

2. Collision coverage: Older cars—at least seven years of age—may not be worth as much money because of depreciation. Consequently, old cars may not be worth insuring for collision.

Desirable cars: Consumers shopping for a new car should keep insurance costs in mind. Premiums usually are higher for autos with high collision or bodily injury claims severity and frequency, or that are the common target of thieves.

The Insurance Institute for Highway Safety compiles loss data on close to 200 automobile makes and models. Consumers can obtain this information for comparison shopping by writing to: The Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, Publications Dept., Watergate 600, Suite 300, Washington, DC 20037.

4. Multi-car discount: Consumers insuring more than one car in the household with the same insurer can save up to 20 percent.

5. Insuring young drivers: It is generally cheaper to insure young drivers on their parents' policy rather than separately when young people are away at school. This is because young drivers who attend school at least 100 miles from home are infrequent users of the family car.

6. Mature driver credit: Drivers aged 50 and older may qualify for up to a 10 percent discount. The discount may vary by company. Statistics show that older drivers are involved in fewer accidents.

7. Passive restraints: Some companies offer discounts ranging from 10 percent to 30 percent for vehicles equipped with automatic seat belts and air bags.

8. Good driver discounts: Savings are available to motorists with accident and violation-free records, and to motorists driving fewer than a certain number of miles per year. Discounts vary by company.

9. Car pooling: Commuters who share driving responsibilities may qualify for discounts.

10. Education: Motorists who successfully complete driver training or defensive driving courses may be eligible for discounts of as much as 10 percent.

Young drivers could qualify for a "good student" discount of up to 25 percent. Being a good student generally means maintaining a "B" average and being on the dean's list or honor roll.

11. Account credit: Consumers who insure their homes and autos with the same company could be eligible for a discount of up to 10 percent. Discounts may vary by company.

12. First accident allowance: If a customer achieves five accident-free years, some insurers offer a "first accident allowance," which guarantees that a motorist's rates won't go up after the first at-fault accident.

13. Anti-theft device credits: Discounts of five to 15 percent are offered in some states for autos equipped with a hood lock, and an alarm or a disabling device (active or passive) that prevents the car from being stolen.

14. Sole female driver: Citing favorable claims experience, some companies offer 10 percent discounts for a female, ages 30-64, who is the only driver in a household.

15. Non-smokers and non-drinkers: Some companies offer discounts to policy holders who abstain from drinking and smoking.

16. Uninsured motorist (UM) coverage: In states where UM isn't required, consumers with applicable health insurance may choose to decline UM coverage.

17. Optional Coverage: Consumers could decide not to purchase medical payments coverage if their health insurance is comprehensive enough to cover potential claims.

By-pass oil filtration helps to reduce both oil changes and engine wear

Your full-flow filter can't do it all. Because the regular full-flow oil filter is inserted directly in the line of oil circulation, it must filter oil quickly in order to keep from starving the engine of oil.

This means that only the larger particles of dirt can be filtered out of the oil since finer, slower filtration would cause a "bottleneck" in circulation at the filter.

Unfortunately, the smallest particles of dirt are also some of the most damaging inside an engine. Experts agree that over 60 percent of all engine wear is caused by particles too small to be filtered by regular oil filters.

These particles are small enough to enter the spaces between bearings, rings, etc., but are too large to "flat" harmlessly between the metal surfaces in the film of oil. Instead, like a sharp pebble inside a shoe, the particles gouge and dig into the surface, leaving them slashed and battered.

By-pass oil filtration

Unlike a full-flow filter, a by-pass filter is situated outside the main line of oil circulation. The by-pass filter taps into the main line, bleeding off and cleaning only a portion of the oil at one time.

This means the by-pass filter can retain the oil longer and do a thorough job of removing contaminants without the worry of obstructing oil circulation.

Certain by-pass filters will even remove destructive water from the oil, helping to prevent rust and corrosion inside your engine.

Reduces oil changes

By cleaning the oil so completely, by-pass oil filters increase not only engine life, but also the life of the oil itself.

With by-pass oil filtration, the service life of the oil can be extended well beyond "normal," depending upon the quality of oil and the conditions and severity of use.

While using by-pass oil filters, the best way to determine the serviceability of your motor oil is by having the oil analyzed. An oil analysis allows you to monitor the condition of your motor oil, determine its protective capabilities, and decide from this information whether an oil change is necessary.

BY-PASS OIL FILTERS extend the service life of engine oil well beyond "normal," making it possible for this man to spend more time driving his vehicle instead of being underneath it.

How to prepare your car's cooling system

In today's busy, fast-paced environment, no one wants to be plagued by car troubles. But with the hot summer months ahead, your car may very well be put to the test.

To help you prepare, there are very simple and fast preventive measures you can take to safeguard against vehicular woes. Maintaining your car's cooling system is one of the most important preventive maintenance tasks you can do.

The following tips offered by the makers of Prestone will help you get your car ready for trouble-free summer driving.

Antifreeze/coolant level
In cooling systems with antifreeze/coolant recovery reservoirs, the radiators should be full of antifreeze. Cars without recovery reservoirs should have an antifreeze level about one inch below the filler neck when the engine is cold.

Flush out harmful corrosion

Just because your coolant is providing ample anti-boil protection does not mean that the antifreeze is in the best working condition.

For example, the rust-inhibitor package may have lost its effectiveness. When the protective chemicals no longer work, rust may accumulate and clogging may occur.

As a rule, the entire cooling system should be flushed and refilled with fresh antifreeze each year to maintain optimum efficiency.

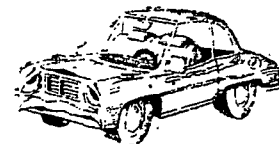

Preventive maintenance is the key to prolonging the life of your car.

Auto Facts

CAN YOUR CAR PASS THE TEST?

361 MOTORISTS IN BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA, VOLUNTARILY TOOK THEIR CARS THROUGH AN EMISSIONS AND SAFETY CHECK LANE. OVER ONE-THIRD WERE UNABLE TO PASS THE EMISSIONS TEST, INDICATING A NEED FOR A TUNE-UP. MANY OTHERS FAILED THE SAFETY CHECKS.

TEST RESULTS
FAILED EMISSIONS	35%
AIR FILTER	35%
EXHAUSTIVE AUTO PRESSURE	33%
WASHER FLUID LOW	30%
OIL OILY	26%
DRIVE BELTS	23%
EXCESSIVE TIRE WEAR	22%
ANTI-FREEZE	17%

BEFORE YOUR CAR FAILS THE TEST AND LEAVES YOU STRANDED, HAVE IT CHECKED. THEN, LIKE MOST OF THE BIRMINGHAM MOTORISTS, GET THE RECOMMENDED WORK DONE SO YOU CAN DRIVE WITH CONFIDENCE.

Don't take your tires for granted

It's quick, it's easy, it's free and, best of all, even the home mechanic who's all thumbs can do it.

The "it" is checking the pressure in your car's tires, something you should be doing on a regular basis says Saab-Scania of America Inc., importer of Swedish-build Saabs.

Air is still free at many service stations and inexpensive tire gauges are even available in supermarkets, says the Swedish car maker, warning that improper tire inflation takes its toll of tires through uneven wear and, in some cases, accidents.

In addition to forcing you to replace tires more frequently, an underinflated tire creates more rolling resistance. More simply put, it means that your car burns more gasoline trying to push itself along on underinflated tires.

Telling figures

Estimates show that a tire underinflated by only five pounds of air increases fuel consumption by as much as seven percent, according to one industry source.

Check tire pressure in morning

Recommended pressures normally apply to cold tires, meaning that you should check your tire pressures early in the morning, before you begin your drive.

If underinflating a tire is bad, what about overinflation? The answer is that putting too much air in your tires is not advisable because, like underinflation, this can also cause tires to wear prematurely, decrease ride comfort, alter your car's handling performance, and reduce the tires' contact patch, that small square of your tire in contact with the road's surface at a given moment.

How do you know if your car's tires need more or less air? One way is that an underinflated tire will often show wear on the outer surfaces of the tread.

An overinflated tire will show wear by the smoothing of the tread in the middle of the tire, but your best bet is keeping a tire gauge in your car and taking readings regularly.

Replace tires as necessary

By federal law, all tires sold in this country must incorporate wear indicators in the form of smooth, treadless strips running across the width of the tire, which become visible as the tire's tread reaches the point that indicates the tire should be replaced. Saab's advice here is don't play with fire; when it is time to replace worn tires, do so at the first opportunity.

IMPORTANCE OF EMISSIONS CONTROL SYSTEMS

Is clean air important to you? According to a national survey of automotive technicians, emissions control hardware is neglected by U.S. motorists more than anything else.

When you neglect your vehicle's emissions control system, we all suffer from polluted air, wasted fuel, sub-standard vehicle performance and added governmental costs for mandatory vehicle inspection programs. Car Care Council urges you to get an annual diagnostic check and tune-up services to keep your car running clean.
